THE GRAYS PLAY DOUGLAS TODAY

Home Team is in Recuperated Form and expect to Do Business On Smelter City Diamond—League Games.

The Grays will invade Douglas today. The team has entirely recovered from the defeat received from Tucson last Sunday and is confident of chalked up another victory against the Smelter City aggregation.

In the game this afternoon, Warner, the star shortstop, will be seen in action on the local team for the first time. Warner was most of the Tucson team that played here last Sunday and the amount of ground that he covered and the deadly accuracy with which he speared ordinarily safe hits of the Gray slammers were largely responsible for the score. The fact that the locals were forced to make as their end of the score. Halbert and Champion will twirl for the Grays, with the probability that Champion will deliver the sphere for the first part of the game. His wing is in fine shape and he is sure to keep the Douglasites guessing. Halbert has been forcing to the front as a twirler for some time. He has some tricky curves and should develop into a star twirler. Ames will probably be in the box for Douglas.

Tucson, with victories piled up on all sides, will be on the home lots today ready to repel El Paso, as the other game of the State league. The game today will be an important one as it will demonstrate whether Douglas was just having an off day last Sunday or whether Tucson is really headed for the big leagues, as some fans in this county fear.

carrying with it an expression of excellent service rendered by the Bisbee firm in taking care of the business of the last year.

Inasmuch as the contract is let under bid, its attainment by the Bisbee firm also carries a note worth while as to the fact that it is able to furnish meat at rates which are lower than those that can be made by outside concerns. The Fort Huachuca contract will require more meat this year than ever before and is a very desirable one to have. The increase in supplies called for comes about through large additions that have been to the commands stationed at the fort.

INSANITY WAS SUICIDE CAUSE

Before Coroner Thomas yesterday at his offices in the Muhlen building evidence was heard by the coroner's jury with relation to the death of Charles T. Moore, which resulted in the submission of a verdict which in sum and substance found that death was due to strangulation, self-inflicted while suffering temporary insanity.

Evidence tendered before the jury indicated that the rash act committed by Moore with result of his death must have occurred about 10 o'clock Friday morning. He was seen at the bank hill pumping plant shortly before that hour. The body was found about noon. That his mind had been entirely clear for some time, and the deduction made from testimony submitted as to his recent actions, it was confirmed by findings of physicians.

As previously announced, funeral services will be held over the remains this morning at 9 o'clock under the auspices of Bisbee Acacia Eagles. Following the brief services, the body will be taken to the Southwestern depot under escort of the Eagles and friends of the deceased. It will be placed aboard the train leaving at 5:40 for the east and accompanied by the widow and son, who will go to Hutchinson, Kas., where burial will be made.

The coroner's jury which served yesterday was composed of M. A. Campbell, foreman; A. C. Lawrence, E. J. J. Her, P. H. Fum, L. V. Tilton and D. R. Riley.

As on Friday, the suicide continued yesterday a sad topic among the many friends of the deceased about the district, none of whom could readily bring themselves to believe that the spirited and genial man they had known so well had ended his own life. That the deed was committed in a moment of melancholy temporary insanity there is no doubt entertained.

Moore and son were the recipients of many condolences at their Tombstone canyon home yesterday, where many friends called to tender sympathy and such aid as they might.

"WISE OLD ELEPHANT" LOWELL THEATRE TODAY

A big novelty two-reel special. The latest addition to the Selig photoplays in which wild animals figure prominently. One Breckinridge better known by the circus name "Big Otto," had personal charge of this production, which was made on the Seligville animal farm, in Los Angeles. J. Edward Hangerford is responsible for the scenario, which affords opportunities for the performance of some remarkable and amusing feats by "Toddles" who has the distinction of appearing in the titular role. "Toddles" is best recalled by the human-like intelligence he displayed in "Lost in the Jungle" about two years ago, a photoplay which was in vogue in both Old and the New World. In the present instance this wise old elephant has surpassed all his former doings, and fairly astonishes up by encroachments on the field of human thought and action. One cannot view these extraordinary films without being stirred by a stronger feeling of affection for docile animals.

"A Wise Old Elephant" is distinguished by the inclusion of two of Selig's best known players in the cast—Miss Kathryn Williams and Hobart Bosworth. The fondness of "Toddles" for Miss Williams is repeatedly shown. He guards her with jealous care and uses his trunk to protect her from her enemies. Indeed all that transpired in this respect during the production has not been included in the pictures; for, in one instance, "Toddles" seized the villain in the play and flung him fondly 20 yards away, where he lay stunned for a time. Miss Williams sustains the part of Zara Haddis with her well known vim and charming grace. As Lieut. Driscoll, an English Officer, Mr. Bosworth is seen to fine advantage in heavy character acting. Herbert Rossington, as Herbert Harding, and Al W. Wilson, as Colonel Haskins, complete the excellent cast. The scenes are laid in India, England's great eastern possession.
